

The partnership will be the first of its kind in Canada, harnessing the dual power of Luminari's massive digital CPA community with Farber's industry-leading expertise in interim management & executive search.

B. Riley Farber and Luminari are proud to announce the launch of a strategic partnership which will provide our clients with a unique finance and accounting recruitment solution across Canada.

Companies looking to hire CPAs will be able to access Luminari's online career management platform and community, while benefitting from the advisory and leadership experience that Farber's Interim Management & Executive Search practice brings to its clients and candidates. With its candidate-centric approach across multiple functions and industries, in the finance area Farber's search practice focuses exclusively on senior and executive roles where CPAs are in high demand.

"At Luminari, we're building the digital epicentre for CPA's careers, from school to retirement. A big part of this is finding the best career opportunities for our members. By partnering with the fantastic team at Farber, we not only give our community access to more diverse roles, we are also able to service our clients better by giving them more service options and access to industry-leading recruitment and business advisory expertise," said Michael Kravshik, CEO & Founder of Luminari.

"Farber's Interim Management & Executive Search practice embraces the change that will result from digital innovation in our industry. We see this partnership with Luminari as an opportunity to enhance and extend our high-touch service to our clients and candidates through a new channel. Luminari's platform is streamlined and provides a seamless experience that is well-suited to the calibre of clients and talent that we work with," said Ian Brenner, a Partner at Farber.
