

We are excited to announce that B. Riley Farber, in collaboration with iA Financial Group (iA), is adding wealth management to our suite of services. At Farber, we believe that solving complex challenges and achieving exceptional results requires a multifaceted approach. With the addition of B. Riley Farber Wealth, we are expanding our capabilities to help our clients succeed and seamlessly bridge their two worlds—the personal and professional. Focused on the individual, the business owner and their employees, B. Riley Farber Wealth brings an advisory mindset and a proprietary approach to the financial wellness process, with the development of customized personal solutions at its core.

The practice will be co-led by Glen Nortje and Vincent Heys. Their planning-centric approach has been developed from their 20+ years of experience in owning, operating, and building highly successful wealth management businesses in multiple countries.

“We are thrilled to welcome Glen and Vincent to the B. Riley Farber family,” said Gary Lifman, Joint Managing Partner at Farber. “We recognize that the lines between home and work life have become increasingly blurred, and very often there’s an overlap between financial and emotional wellbeing. This latest expansion demonstrates that B. Riley Farber is committed to helping people succeed—both personally and in their businesses.”

Glen said, “We are very excited to be joining B. Riley Farber and working alongside iA. Both organizations take a human-centric approach, and we intend to weave that shared culture through our innovative financial planning process.”

Pierre Vincent, Senior Vice President at iA, added, “We are proud to announce this new strategic partnership with Farber. It’s an opportunity for us to join forces in our commitment to helping individual and corporate clients achieve greater financial security and guaranteed peace of mind. Big enough to matter and small enough to care, iA has been rooted in the Canadian society and serving Canadians for over 125 years. A key player in the financial industry, iA has always invested in its clients, one person at a time.”

With a long-term view, we take practical steps to help our clients gain clarity and confidence over their financial objectives. From realizing professional and personal wealth management goals, to selecting the corporate benefits plan for employees—we help nurture the emotional and financial well-being of our clients.
