- sourcing private equity
- subordinated debt
- term loans and commercial mortgages (owner occupied)
- venture and royalty loans
- working capital, factoring, and purchase order financing

Select client experience

Barbara brings 30 years of senior financial and operational experience in retail, manufacturing, packaging, distribution, hospitality, and electronics. She has worked with stakeholders to manage departments, prepare and analyze financial statements, budgets, and forecasts.

As CFO of a large distributor she successfully managed the company's financing structure through a significant downturn; moving from senior bank lending to a non-bank Asset-Based Lender which allowed the company to stabilize and re-grow to profitability.

In her current role with B. Riley Farber, Barbara has worked with a variety of financing situations, including:

- merger & acquisition financing: Assisted our client purchase a multi-company machine tooling business that had operations complementary to our client's company. Barabra's role included creating the required financing structure acceptable to the senior lender, negotiating with the vendor to secure a vendor takeback mortgage and sourcing and negotiating with the senior lender for both purchase financing and working capital.
- bridge financing: Sourced bridge financing for our client, a not-for-profit private school. The bridge financing was used to finance successful litigation, and subsequently as working capital for the school to regain and stabilize its student base after the litigation was finalized.
- retail real estate financing: Sourced new senior debt financing for our client after their construction lender placed the company under a forbearance agreement. Barbara negotiated a near bank senior debt facility to pay out all existing mortgages and loans and to provide working capital for our client.
- stressed/distressed financing: Sourced new senior debt financing for a construction company that had been under a forbearance agreement for a prolonged period, unable to find a new lender. Barbara negotiated a near bank senior debt facility to pay out all existing mortgages and loans and to provide working capital for our client.
