

Bryn Savage

M.A.

Trainer & Coach | Circle & Square

Bryn Savage is a Trainer & Coach with the Circle & Square practice of Farber. Bryn focuses on corporate training, leadership coaching, and facilitation.

Connect with me

- bsavage@farbergroup.com
- 416.496.3417
- 416.833.4630
- Download VCard
- LinkedIn

Profile overview

Bryn's background in psychotherapy, psychology, academic research and coaching allows her to effectively assess and respond to the human element of change. She works with the Circle & Square methodology to promote emotional intelligence in the workplace through:

- understanding and leveraging interpersonal dynamics to overcome the hurdles to success
- promoting personal and professional growth by raising self-awareness and teaching the building blocks to positive change
- equipping businesses with the tools for dynamic and creative problem-solving by creating strong and versatile teams
- supporting personal development of high-potential young professionals

Bryn's clients value her authentic and engaged approach and ability to adapt her understanding of people to meet the needs of the situation.

Of interest...

- Bryn has hiked the famous Camino de Santiago—twice! Learn more about her passion for fitness, literature, and coaching in her Faces of Farber profile

Areas of expertise

- Circle & Square – Executive Coaching
- Circle & Square – Emotional Intelligence Training

Insights

Articles

- How to Get Your Employees to Disagree with You
- The Power of Relationships: In The Workplace and Beyond

Education & qualifications

- Master of Arts, Counselling & Spirituality, University of Ottawa – Saint Paul University (2016)
- Honours Bachelor of Arts, (Psychology & English Literature), Queen’s University (2014)

Affiliations & recognitions

- Member of the College of Registered Psychotherapists of Ontario